Encourage them to color darkly or heavily.. • Once the paper is covered with crayon art, ask students to take and crumple it up -- making sure not to rip it to bits. • Help the students to lay the paper out as flat as it will go on a piece of newspaper. • The next step involves covering the crumpled paper with watered down paint. 	1.   		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Make sure that the paint is not too thick by testing it on a scrap piece of paper. A thin wash of color is what is required. (Teacher must test it the day before) • Using a paintbrush, students can cover the paper with a paint wash. The paint will go into all the little cracks that began to appear when the paper was crumpled. • Let it dry.
